

Certificate of Excellence

The student has successfully completed the course:

Copying and Pasting from StackOverflow

Name of the student: Some dude on StackOverflow

Date of graduation: April 10, 2016

Description of the course:

In this course, people consistently ignore the existing documentation completely. They are encouraged to do no effort whatsoever, but instead post their questions on StackOverflow. It would be a mistake to refer to people completing this course as developers. A better designation for them would be copy/paste artist. Only in very rare cases do these people know what they are actually doing. Not a single student has ever learned anything substantial during this course.